WALLULA, March 2d 1866

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

I wish to call your attention to the report of "a committee appointed on the Oregon route to Montana, addressed to the Bankers and Merchants of San Francisco," and signed by James M. Gowery, J. C. Merrill, and L. H. Allen, published in the Daily Alta California Feb. 23d, in which it is stated among other things in regard to the White Bluffs route, that there is "a good wagon road" and that the "machinery for the steamer now being built on Pend Oreille Lake was freighted over this proposed route in December last." This committee were misinformed in regard to the matter. In the first place there is no "good wagon road" from White Bluffs to Pen d'Oreille Lake. Indeed there is no road at all. In the next place, the machinery for the lake boat was not freighted over this route—was not taken to White Bluffs—but was freighted from Wallula.

In regard to the route to Pen d'Oreille Lake via White Bluffs, the first freight team that attempts it will prove its impracticability. It is sixty miles above this place, but is no nearer the Lake by any road over which freight can be taken in wagons. One, and perhaps the greatest obstacle in the way is that the road must necessarily cross a belt of drifting sand at least five miles in width, where no road can be made and no track is visible, for a quarter of an hour after the passage of a train. Aside from this, the absence of wood and water on the proposed route renders it impracticable.

But a sufficient reason why White Bluffs can never become the route to Montana via Pen d'Oreille Lake, is that goods can be taken from Wallula or the mouth of Snake river (ten miles above here), as cheap and as quick, and I believe quicker and cheaper than from White Bluffs; saving sixty miles miles of river transportation and $22 50 per ton, the present rate of freight charged by the O. S. N. Co. If the above reasons are not sufficient, another will be found in the fact that steamers at present cannot cross Hamley rapids five miles above this place at present, and no time for the last three years have they been able to do so in the Spring, before the 8th of April; nor can they be crossed in the Fall later than the middle of October. In view of these facts, I regard one thing as certain, that by whatever route the freight and travel go to Montana it will not be around by White Bluffs.

Yours &c. A. F.

RADICAL MEETING IN ST. LOUIS.—At a meeting of this character held in St. Louis January 19th, the following resolutions were adopted:

We, assembled in mass meeting, consider it the highest duty of every citizen of a republic to take a lively interest in the public welfare, and especially to watch with jealous eyes the proceedings of the Administration.

The main question agitating at present the public mind is the reconstruction of the Union to complete unity and freedom, after our protracted bloody struggle. To deliberate on this question we have selected the day which, four years ago, witnessed the important victory at Mill Springs, Kentucky, opening that successful Spring campaign which drove the rebels beyond the lines of the Tennessee, and served as a turning point of the state of affairs in the West.

On that day, as on so many other occasions, we, the people, willingly sacrificed our blood; we, the people, have patiently borne oppression and hardships, so that the contest with the slaveholding oligarchy might be decided in favor of right and liberty, and it becomes us, therefore, also to be heard when the question of securing the fruits of the struggle and the sacrifice is settled.

We resolve:

First—To the President of the United States belongs, according to the Constitution, only the executive power; he has no right to make laws; we therefore denounce as an usurpation his arbitrary proceedings in restoring the political status of the States lately in rebellion without consulting Congress.

Second—We just as sternly protest against his recognition of the Constitutions of those States, framed by dubious representatives, elected by equally dubious electors.

Third—The so-called sovereignty of the States was the main cause of the rebellion, it is therefore eminently necessary to get rid of this evil, and to take such measures as will make us, in the future, a nation of Americans, a purpose clearly aimed at by the founders of the Union. Class legislation and compulsory labor are two more causes poisoning the very vitals of the republic; it is, therefore, necessary radically to cure them. Treason, miserable treason, has menaced the life of our country, it is, therefore necessary to treat it so as to secure us against its recurrence in times to come. The rebellion has burdened us with almost unbearable debt, payment of which is closely connected with the honor and the welfare of the nation, it is, therefore, necessary that we guard against its repudiation. The policy, however, pursued by the President overlooks all these points and restores the former pernicious and perilous state of things, thereby endangering all the results of the nation's bloody sacrifices.

Fourth—We therefore pray that the Congress may resist these dangerous proceedings of the Executive, by annulling forthwith, and in an unequivocal manner, these experiments, and by providing ample securities against the alleged evils. Equal rights to all without distinction of color or descent, let this be one of the safeguards! Verily the principles laid down in the Declaration of Independence, as Schuyler Colfax, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, had advised!

We harbor no feelings of vengeance against the inhabitants of the South, being well aware that they have been a part of our people before, and will be a part of it again; we must recall, however, to the President's memory his own expressions that treason must be made odious, and that mercy to the individual is injustice to the whole community.

We are not crying for the blood of the rebels, but we emphatically protest against the restoration of any of the leaders, civil or military, to citizenship in the United States.

To admit any such men in Congress, or to any Federal office, would, in our opinion, be a wanton insult to the whole loyal people, a derision of common sense, and treason against the republic.

Fifth—We call upon our citizens elsewhere, also, to express themselves in regard to this important question so that the true will of the people may be known.

Sixth—That these resolutions be printed and communicated to President Johnson and to our Representatives in Congress.

IMPORTANT ORDER.—The following order concerning the sale of empty spirit casks with inspection marks thereon has been issued by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The order is dated Jan 3 1866:

From information received at this office it is apparent that the provisions of the 59th section of the act of June 30, 1864, as amended March 3, 1865, in relation to the purchase and sale of empty casks with the inspection marks thereon, are very often disregarded.

By those provisions of the law a penalty of three hundred dollars is imposed for the purchase or sale of such cask so marked.

The object of the law is to prohibit the traffic. The penalty is severe and intentionally so. Both parties to the contract of sale are liable. If the vendor permits the empty cask to pass out of his hands without removing the inspection marks he is liable to the penalty. If the purchaser receives the casks with the inspection marks thereon he also is subject to the penalty.

If there is a purchase or a sale of an empty spirit cask with the inspection marks thereon the intent is immaterial—or rather, the proof of the offence is conclusive as to the intent.

The special attention of all officers of internal revenue is called to this matter and they are hereby instructed to cause prosecutions to be commenced for all violations of this provision of the law which may come to their knowledge and to see that the law is strictly enforced in this behalf.

E. A. ROLLINS, Commissioner.

The women of Helena have taken up the cudgel against John Chinaman and have published a card notifying John unless he suspend his laundry business he would be "visited by a committee of ladies," but what the fair sex propose to do after they make their visit, does not appear.

Miscellaneous Items.

The Salt Lake Telegraph says the snow has been very deep on the plains, and the weather unusually cold. About 1,500 head of oxen have perished beyond Denver. A great many trains have been snowed up, and great loss is the consequence. A large number of persons have perished, and every fort along the road is filled with unfortunate teamsters, with feet, hands, noses and ears frozen, many of whom the surgeons despair of. The military officers have rendered great assistance, except at Fort Ashbury, where the commander refused a large number of sufferers food or shelter.

We learn from the Yreka Union that in one of Brigham Young's sermons he said: "The man who sells liquor, and thinks to escape damnation, fools himself." He has, however, changed his sentiments on this subject, and has determined to save the whole class of liquor venders from the hard fate, by taking the damnation on himself alone. He has forbidden all to sell, and has opened a bar himself, the only bar in Salt Lake City. He claims the sole right to sell liquor by wholesale or retail.

A letter from Mississippi states that, on the 6th inst., Gen. T. C. Osborn, who helped to raise the 39th Illinois regiment, and who was promoted to Brigadier General for meritorious conduct, was murdered by a body of citizens on his plantation near Greenville, Miss. He had been notified previously by a self-constituted committee of citizens that he had twenty-four hours to leave in, and if found there after that time he would be killed. He stayed on his plantation, and was assailed and shot as above stated.

It is proposed to erect a monument at West Point, to Major General James McPherson, one of the youngest of the great Generals who won honor by their worth during the war. General McPherson was killed in battle before Atlanta, Georgia, July 22, 1864, aged 33. He was the particular friend of Grant and Sherman, and is mentioned in the Lieutenant General's report as "the brave, accomplished, and noble hearted McPherson." Louis McLane, General Agent of Wells, Fargo & Co., receives subscriptions at San Francisco, for the monument fund.

A clerk in the Quartermaster General's office, Washington, named Jones, remarked, on hearing of the threats of assassination to Senator Sumner, that he was not exactly in favor of decapitation, but he would like to see him sent to his long home. The Secretary of War, on hearing of it, immediately dismissed him from the service.

The Iron Mountain of Missouri is said to be exactly in the geographical center of the United States. It is an almost solid mass of specular iron ore, rising from a level plain 260 feet. Its base covers 500 acres. The ore contains 67 per cent. of iron. It may very properly be called the Hub of the Union.

Ex-President Buchanan meets with no more favor from the South, for which he did so much just before the outbreak of the rebellion, than from the loyal North. The Richmond Times, alluding to his recently published book, says he must have written it under some judicial blindness, and describes the author as an "extraordinary illustration of the trite remark, 'that not only great men have their weakness but little ones, too,'" and as a "model of deportment who could never be trusted by his most intimate friends one single hour."

They had an election for city officers at Salt Lake on the 12th ult. The Telegraph next day said: "We heard last night that the number of votes polled for the municipal election ticket amounted to 2,433. That is pretty well for a beginning, but nothing to what rivalry might run it."

It is stated that the Senate Postoffice Committee will report against the recommendation of the Postmaster General to require prepayment on all newspapers sent to regular subscribers. The Committee believe it would be unjust to weekly newspapers sent through the mails.

Over five hundred original Union men of Alabama, noted for their unswerving fidelity to the national cause, have forwarded a petition to Washington, setting forth that they are proscribed in that State as "traitors to the South," and deprecating the withdrawal of the Federal troops from that State.

General Gordon Granger is in Washington. A dispatch says: "Twenty one years of service has satisfied his appetite for military honors, and he proposes to resign."

A Minnesota land speculator, in describing a lake in that State, says it is so clear and deep that by looking into it you can see them making tea in China.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT IN FLORIDA.—A letter from Tallahassee, giving an account of the inauguration of Gov. Walker, on the 20th ult., makes the following statement regarding public sentiment in that State:

Generally, there is the best of feeling; but no citizen who did not take active part in the rebellion is popular, or can by any possibility find favor, and it is generally believed that the "test oath" will be repealed or disregarded. This idea is strengthened by the return from Washington of James B. Gamble, one of the most active secessionists, with the commission as collector of internal revenue, without being required to take the oath. If departments thus disregard the law, Congress may, or they may repeal it, and probably will. At least the proposition to elect Senators who can take this oath is treated with contempt and strong expressions of bitter feeling. Some go so far as to openly declare that they will sustain no man for any position who has not been opposed to the Federal Government.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 7 1866

UNION STATE CONVENTION.

The voters of the several counties of Oregon who have been and are in favor of maintaining the supremacy of the Union the Constitution and the laws of the United States, against all opposition, are respectfully invited to hold Conventions according to the usual custom for the election of Delegates to a Union State Convention to be held at Corvallis on the 29th day of March 1866 for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor, Member of Congress, Secretary of State, State Treasurer and State Printer. We respectfully recommend the holding of County Conventions throughout the State on Saturday, the 17th day of March 1866, at which time Delegates to the State Convention can be selected. It is also recommended that the precinct meetings be held on Saturday the 10th day of March. Delegates to the State Convention from each Judicial District assembled at the time of holding said Convention, will nominate candidates for Judge and Prosecuting Attorney, where vacancies exist. The several counties are entitled to send Delegates to the State Convention as follows:

The New Party

For some months past a movement has been in private negotiation for the formation of a new political party which should combine the rebel element at the South with the Democratic and conservative elements at the North. With this combination secured, it has been thought practicable to capture or seduce the administration into co-operation with it. This accomplished, the new party would be fairly set up in business, and would proceed to use all its advantages for the perpetuation of its power.

This is the explanation of that concerted assault, by both the Northern Democrats and conservatives upon the authority of Congress, as the law-making department, over the reconstruction of the revolted States. It explains, moreover, the jealousy of the conservatives in participating in local elections, and the covert suggestions in which they have from time to time indulged, that party obligations were not as imperative this year as formerly. The design has been to prepare the way for a great and fatal defection which should lift up the pro-slavery regime to its old authority.—Pittsburg Gazette.

There is not a particle of doubt that the managers of the Copperhead party have done their utmost to combine the less radical class of Democrats with the "conservative" element of the Union party, and by rallying to the support of the President and sustaining him in all measures he might choose to recommend, to become the Administration party, exclude a vast majority of the [illegible] and even of the masses of the Union organization, and prepare the way for the restoration of such men as Seymour, S. S. Cox, Pendleton & Co., to place and power. A further idea with them has been to place the old Democratic party in such a position that with the united vote of the South and a few of the Northern States, it might succeed in the next Presidential election. By this sort of strategy the old Democratic spoilshunters, with certain of the placemen who have lately voted with the Union party, expected ere long to have acquired joint control of all the branches of the Government, and to have been so strong as to hold sway for an indefinite period. The Union papers of the East have made frequent mention of this contemplated movement for a new party by semi-traitors, Copperheads and "conservatives." The New York Tribune of the 16th ult., noticed it as follows:

"We impart the efforts now being made to develop a Union party at the South, every possible influence is being brought to bear upon the President to [illegible] the veto of the Freedmen's Bureau Bill, when recent Republicans and Copperheads can find a pretext to fuse into a national party and secure power at the coming elections."

From recent political developments, our readers can judge for themselves whether or not [illegible] statements in regard to the proposed formation of a "new national organization on conservative principles," were correct or not. They can see that those who affected to scout the idea of a "new party were the very persons who were engaged in the effort to bring the party into being.

"Not on it."—A Democrat of some prominence in this city and, withal, a man of considerable force of character, remarked in conversation the other day, that if the Democratic Convention of this State were disposed to be so foolish and puerile as to endorse President Johnson, he for one was "not on it." He did not think Johnson belonged to them and he had no love for the man. He was in favor of standing by the old [illegible] "time-honored principles," etc.,—the original platform of "the sovereignty of the States," "States' rights," and "the Constitution as it was," being the only declaration which he thought the Democracy had any business to make. He had no respect for those men who were ready to catch up every new cry for expediency's sake, and he doubted the practicability of dividing the Union party by the farce of a Democratic endorsement of President Johnson.

We think he took a very sensible view of the matter. How could the Democracy maintain a consistent record unless they reiterate their devotion to the late rebel leaders? Having done what lay in their power to disrupt the Union, what have they now to do with any plan of reconstruction? After the last five years' experience of the country in their hypocrisy and treacherous dealings, who can be now deceived by anything they may declare or deny? The Union party of the country, after having stood firmly and steadfastly by the Government [illegible] of rebels and unarmed but [illegible] Copperhead foes, for so many years, is not likely to be [illegible], dissolved or divided by the paper bullets of a new contemptible faction. Let the Democracy declare what they will, the Union party will go straightforward to the consummation of the great destinies entrusted to it, with all that unflinching integrity which has characterized it in the past, and which can but maintain it forever against such enemies as the modern Confederate Democracy.

ROUTE TO MONTANA.—The Sacramento Bee ridicules the report of the Committee of the San Francisco Board of Trade, in favor of the route by the Colorado river, and says that, "it would have been an improvement to have suggested the route, via New Orleans." It proceeds:

> The idea is certainly an original one to send goods by sea some two thousand miles, tranship and then send them by river perhaps another twelve hundred, and then be a little further from the point of destination than when they started. They will, after their arrival at the head of navigation, have to be hauled from the Colorado through the greater part of Utah and Idaho, and over no better roads than is found running directly from Sacramento. By the Oregon route there is not to exceed one-tenth of the land travel and the total distance is but little over half as great as it is by the Columbia.

The route will be settled by the laws of trade, and, as water transportation is the cheapest in the world, that route which has not to "exceed one-tenth of the land travel" of any other, will be adopted in spite of Boards of Trade, committees, reports, and all the talk of all the newspapers.

The Walla Walla Statesman, this week, supports President Johnson as against the "Radicals." Next week it will be quite as likely to espouse the Radical cause and howl for Johnson's impeachment. The week after it will eulogize the "Kentucky conservative chap," and so, from time to time, continue its favorite game of flip-flop.

If Democratic principles are "eternal," as claimed by the Confederate Democracy, why not reserve them for the "Eternal World?" They would suit the constitution of the lower and hotter half of it, at least. Besides, their peculiar advocates will probably be in the majority there.

State Items

The diggings struck on Applegate Creek by the Taylors, are turning out hugely.

Messrs Underwood & Co will soon have a new saw mill in operation at Springfield, Lane county.

The Sentinel says a telegram was sent from the Jacksonville office to Wilkesbarre, Pa., and an answer received in twenty hours.

Ten soldiers had arrived from Fort Klamath by the old wagon road, after a four days trip, a part of the way over snow seven feet in depth.

A temperance lecture was lately delivered at Lafayette by Mr S. C. Adams on which occasion a large number signed the pledge of total abstinence.

The Corvallis Gazette says that the pork house of Mr Hamilton of that place was broken into a few nights since, by some scoundrel, who carried off quite a lot of bacon.

The Reporter says: "Some of our Ashland friends have struck a good thing in the shape of a silver bearing quartz lode on Emigrant Creek which they have named Arkansas Lodge."

The Statesman contains a call, over the signature of W B Simonton, a physician of Salem for a meeting of medical gentlemen, on the second Tuesday of March, to organize a Medical Society.

The cost of the Corvallis city government for the last year was $1,108 36, just the same amount having been received from licenses, fines, &c. The city authorities evidently know how to run the machine.

From the Democrat we learn that the new factory at Brownsville is nearly ready to start. A large tannery has been commenced; other buildings are going up, and altogether the town is rapidly attaining to a condition of healthy prosperity.

The Mountaineer says that snow commenced falling at the Dalles on Saturday evening and collected to the depth of two inches. The next day it went off in a tremendous fog. It further says the present winter has been worse than any within the memory of the "oldest inhabitant."

The citizens of Albany are taking steps for the establishment of an institution of learning of a high grade. The grounds for a building have already been purchased. The school district voters have decided to levy a tax of $3,000 for repairs of the district school house. Albany is taking a very commendable stand in relation to educational matters.

The necessity of a reinforcement of the troops now in the neighborhood of the Canyon City road, for the purpose of guarding against Indian depredations, is urged by the Mountaineer. It is now approaching the time of year when the red devils begin to roam about. Capt. Small's Company, which has been lately reduced by discharges, is the only force in that district.

The Statesman, after giving a list of those who have built, or made considerable repairs to, houses in Salem, during the past year, adds: "We are quite confident if account had been taken of the numberless small improvements below the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars, of which no notice has been taken, the total cost of improvements in Salem during the past year would not fall short of two hundred thousand dollars."

The Democrat says that the small town of Harrisburg in Linn county, has grown to be an important trading point, and that more produce, wheat, bacon, butter, eggs, wool, &c., is annually shipped from there, than from any point above Portland, save perhaps one or two of the largest towns. Harrisburg is the centre of a very large and flourishing agricultural and stock district, and will no doubt soon become one of the most important towns on the Upper Willamette.

The Sentinel says that in consequence of the notice given by the Register at Roseburg, in relation to mineral lands subject to entry, the miners of Jackson county held a meeting on the 17th ult., to protest against such entries being made. Petitions to have such lands reserved from sale are being circulated, and another meeting of the miners of Southern Oregon is to be held on the 17th inst. A general Convention of miners and all others interested was recommended to be held at Portland on the 4th of May next.

YAQUINA BAY.—A correspondent of the Albany Journal writing from Oysterville, furnishes the following information in relation to the Yaquina country, a portion of which has recently been thrown open to settlement:

> The harbor is amply sufficient to accommodate one thousand ocean vessels, the entering channel being 24 feet in depth and entirely safe for passage of vessels. The bay is 30 miles in length. Tide water runs up the Yaquina five miles, and up Elk river four miles. About twenty five men are employed in raising oysters and selecting for market. Oysters are in demand at two dollars per bushel. There has been a scarcity of lumber for building purposes, but that want will be supplied in a few weeks by the completion of a saw mill which will be at work by the 10th of May. The new district is about twenty five miles square and very many good claims can yet be obtained. The wagon road from Corvallis will be in condition for wagons to pass by the middle of April. The soil of the valleys is exceedingly fertile and well adapted to vegetables and grain. The climate is mild and equable. A small steamer will be plying on the bay and river in two or three weeks. A town site has been located at the mouth of Elk river.

NO CAUSE FOR PANIC.—The Bulletin of San Francisco publishes an article a column in length, severely lecturing California journalists and correspondents for having said so much about the great earthquake in that city. The Bulletin counsels everybody to keep mum on this subject lest people from a distance may be deterred from going to San Francisco through fear that earth's expanding jaws may open wide to devour them. The San Franciscans want theirs to be a very popular city. If it is to be swallowed up—buried alive in earth's capacious abyss—it will be delightful to have as numerous a company as possible involved in the catastrophe, so that the subterranean city may have the renown of being more populous than any other under the earth.

The "Confederacies" up the valley have adopted their old dodge of organizing clubs and circles. Every "Confederacy" joins every club within his reach, thus making a few men constitute a good many clubs. The aggregate in that way counts up pretty strong, and is heralded over the country as an immense increase of Confederate strength. Go in, gentlemen, that method may make a tremendous list of "accessions," but when you come to vote, one man counts but one, and election evening will count you down to the miserable squad that you really are.

"ON WHICH SIDE"—The Democratic Senator from Oregon is not remarkable for staying very long on any given side of a political question. The ease with which he changes base, is quite proverbial. A few days since, an officer, one of Sherman's veterans, while speaking of the battle of Chickamauga, was interrupted by the remark from a bystander, "That was the battle at which Senator Nesmith was present." The veteran, with a quick gesture and a quizzical look, inquired, "On which side?"

Ask your "loyal" neighbors if they are aware of the fact that our Government has been controlled by Democratic policy for fifty five years.—Review.

Better not. Your "loyal neighbors" will answer you that Democrats, failing to control the Government longer, made an almost superdevilish effort to destroy it, and the history of the last few years will clinch the truth to you as firmly as you have hugged treason.

The Knoxville Whig forcibly states an important truth in these terms:

> The Union man who is in good repute with the defeated traitors of the South, is not entitled to the confidence of truly loyal men anywhere.

The following items are from the Ruby City Avalanche of February 24th:

THE MINT QUESTION.

A public meeting, held February 15th, to consider the mint question, adopted the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, It is anxiously hoped by the people of this Territory that the present Congress will pass a law to provide for the establishment of a Branch Mint in Idaho Territory, at some point selected and found to be the most eligible and convenient for such purpose; and

WHEREAS, It is of the greatest importance in procuring the passage of such a measure through Congress, that the people of the various mining localities in the Territory should have an opportunity to contribute their reasons for the measure and data, together with the most accurate statistics within their reach, showing the amount of gold and silver bullion produced in the different localities, cost of shipping the same to San Francisco, and any and all facts tending to show the absolute necessity for the establishment of a mint and the profit which would result to the Government and all interested in the Territory, therefore, be it

Resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed by the Chair to act as Central Committee to receive the reports from the different mining districts, and to prepare an address, in which shall be stated the facts and necessary evidence to sustain our Delegate in Congress in his efforts to procure the passage of a law for the establishment of a Mint at Boise City, I. T.

Resolved, That the committee be, and is hereby requested to correspond with such persons in the counties of Boise, Alturas and Owyhee as will exert themselves in getting up meetings and procuring the sense of the people in those counties on the subject of a mint.

ROBBERY OF A STAGE STATION

S. P Dugan writes to the Avalanche from Bernard's ranch, February 19th, as follows:

Yesterday morning shortly after sunrise, the Stage Station at Cold Springs, near Reynolds' Creek, was attacked by the Indians and the horses taken. The particulars are as follows: I had just arose from bed and fed the four horses their morning meal of grain, and then, preparatory to getting my own breakfast, had gone down to the spring for water, the spring is situated about forty yards from the stable. Returning, was about half way from spring to stable, unmindful of danger, when the keen whistle of a ball, followed by the sharp report of a rifle, admonished that something was up. Raising my head and looking up the road, not fifty yards from me, were two Indians on horseback—one of whom had just shot at me. My only arms, a revolver, was in the stable. Running for the stable, the Indians galloped up the road. After getting into the stable and securing my revolver, and then taking a look at my friends up the road, and thinking, from appearances, they intended calling again, I saddled one horse, threw my blankets on the others and concluded to run for it. When I got out of the stable I don't think the Indians were a hundred yards behind. The horses would not drive and the red devils were gaining on me. I left all but the one I rode, and made Carson's and Bernard's in double-quick; got a party together and followed the Indians to the canyon of Reynolds' Creek. This same party, in the earlier part of the night, visited Babbington's and got ten head at that place.

Yours, &c.,
SAM'L P. DUGAN.

P. S.—As many as eight, and probably a dozen Indians in all.

TIRED OF BULLION.

From a run of thirteen stamps nine days Messrs. Moore & Fogus cleaned up a little over $10,000 00. This is from Oro Fino rock. The ore of this mine grows richer and richer. There is no doubt but it is a first-class mine. Its permanency is as fully established as that of any mine and the increased amount of bullion cleaned up each time is absolute evidence of its richness.

The New York & Owyhee mill cleaned up over one hundred pounds of amalgam yesterday. The rock from which it was obtained was principally from the Minnesota mine. A large quantity of battery dust was obtained from under the stamps. The result is satisfactory and places the Minnesota on the list of profitable mines.

The Cosdios mill has demonstrated that the Silver Legion is not only a good—but first class ledge. At this time, no regular clean up has been made, but the amount of quicksilver and an export squint in the pan is convincing. The rock now being worked is only second class. The mill works perfectly and has already shown that War Eagle Mountain contains another ledge equally as rich as the Oro Fino.

APPOINTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS

John A. Post, Esq., has received the appointment of U S Assistant Assessor of Internal Revenue for Owyhee county. He is, also, authorized to make collections. He has entered upon the discharge of his duties, and will doubtless make an efficient officer.

Harry Cooper, as will be seen by reading the advertisements, challenges Patsey Foy to a trial of skill and endurance without gloves. "May the best man win" as the saying goes.

The Idaho World of the 24th ult has the following:

A temperate atmosphere, and occasional wind from the South for more than a week, have had a perceptible influence on the snow in this Basin which is now about one and a half feet deep. A ragged line of red earth around the stumps, and on the jagged points of hills afford us an occasional glimpse of returning spring. Mining operations are in preparation, ditches are being cleaned out and extended and before many weeks the wintry stagnation will give way to something better.

The "Lawyer" lodge at Placerville has been sold in New York for $10 000 and we are informed that the "Banner" lode at Banner City, is about to change owners also. One good mill at Banner will demonstrate the fact that the Banner District contains some of the richest leads in the country.

A friend writing from Rocky Bar says: "The weather is clear warm and pleasant, and the snow is melting quite fast and does not now exceed three feet. Four quartz mills are running regularly viz: The Harris, Washington, Idaho and Major Speer's mill, and all are doing splendidly."

BOUNTY FOR SCALPS

The people of the Owyhee country have held a meeting and appointed three persons to select twenty five men to go on the war path against the Indians. The committee are to give "one hundred dollars for every buck scalp and fifty dollars for every squaw scalp." The scalp hunters are to make oath that their trophies are obtained by the company. A quartermaster is appointed and the people [illegible] a vigorous prosecution of the war."

The Idaho Statesman says:

Captain Gates who has been in town a few days, tells us that the boat at the mouth of the river is going ahead finely. The frame is up and ready for planking. The cabins will be commenced next week, and in three weeks more the hull will be nearly finished. The boilers and engines, and all the heavier parts of the machinery, are on the ground and the engineers will soon begin to put it in place.

A little girl of Mrs. Murray's living on the other side of the river some five miles below town, was attacked by three dogs, one day in the early part of this week and barely rescued with its life. The dogs tore the scalp from the back part of the child's head and the flesh from its face and arm in a horrible manner though it is not so badly injured as to cause death.

THE STEAM TUG RABBONI.—The steam tug Rabboni, Capt. Paul Corno, is at Couch's wharf, having towed the bark Almatia, Capt. A. B. Richardson, into port from sea. Capt. Corno denies that on Tuesday last he left his station and steamed to Astoria for wood when the steamship Montana arrived at the bar, ready to cross. He says he had on board some forty or forty-five tons of coal, and had wood nearer than Astoria, besides usually carrying some fourteen cords on board. He says he knew nothing of the Montana being there at the time stated, but was waiting to go out after the ship Almatia. The Almatia arrived at the bar on Monday, and lay off for five days before the tug reached her. The log book shows that the weather was bad. There can be no mistake but that the Montana was at the bar on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, and not only the report of the ship, but passengers state in effect that the bar was smooth for three hours. At 11 o'clock it was too rough for a steamship to cross, and the tug could not go out. Capt. Corno urges that the complaints made against his tug, and the privilege granted to her by the pilot laws of this State and [illegible] Territory, spring from jealous or mercenary motives. We are not prepared to say that this is strictly so. As a tug boat none can find fault with the Rabboni. She is a fine vessel and well adapted to [illegible], and all parties agree, as we have before stated, that she would be useful on the bar, yet there is [illegible] complaint at the exclusive privileges granted to her as a pilot boat. Captain Richardson feels [illegible] with the tug for his being in port to-day, no doubt, but taking the reports as they come to us, we can see no [illegible] his vessel should not have been here five days [illegible] bar was as smooth as represented on Tuesday [illegible], that would have been a good time, it would seem to all, for the tug to have towed her in, and at the same time, put a pilot on board the Montana. As the tug is now here, no friend to the commerce of Oregon could wish to see her leave the bar, but there must be some grounds for the complaints in regard to her. We see the [illegible] employing the pilots of the old boat, and paying the pilots of the tug half rates without [illegible] of their services, and we hear frequent complaints from ship masters, and for this, there certainly [illegible]. The old pilots have no interest in [illegible], and base their refusal to take an interest upon [illegible] of the expensiveness of supporting steam on [illegible] with the present commerce, and from this position [illegible] the difference, and until the parties interested come to an understanding, no doubt there will [illegible]. It is a matter of impossibility, be[illegible] for the tug to cruise, with the amount of [illegible] she has to pay expenses, and while her services [illegible] in the capacity of a tow-boat, there [illegible] pursuant to the law governing bar [illegible] a pilot boat.

HARDWARE, IRON AND STEEL.—The large [illegible] that is required to keep a full stock in the hardware, iron and steel business, is a matter of much astonishment to those not initiated. An hour spent at the [illegible] of E. J. Northrup & Co., which is now [illegible] cellar to garret, is sufficient to convince any[illegible] goodly number of items on the [illegible] to complete the bill of a full [illegible] the hardware, iron and steel, [illegible] have a large assortment of wagon timber, [illegible] shafts, hubs, spokes, rims, poles, [illegible] are almost sufficient to fill a page [illegible] for making the vehicles are taken [illegible] the various branches of mechanics [illegible] have assumed into importance on this [illegible] breaking out of the late rebellion, is that [illegible]. We notice that few, if any [illegible]. Before the war the difference [illegible] so great as to give the importers [illegible] a decided advantage over home [illegible], but now the tables are turned and the [illegible]. Much of the material, however, [illegible] nearly all of it, has to be imported, [illegible] with the hardware [illegible] which have generally, the past [illegible] are now greatly [illegible] and prospects [illegible] that in future there will be [illegible] this market, for the demand of [illegible] as a whole, was very [illegible] but [illegible] Although somewhat less than in [illegible] of the country, [illegible] high [illegible] East, and the uncertainty [illegible] market, the importers being [illegible] in this city, who deal [illegible] articles, Messrs. Corbett, Under[illegible] we may judge that they have [illegible] as they have very large stocks on [illegible] are being largely replenished by each arrival.

[illegible] of one of the fine buildings of [illegible] of glazed iron on the [illegible] the steps from constantly wearing out. [illegible] there are from forty to fifty persons who [illegible] the stairs regularly, besides an [illegible] who may be called at the [illegible] business. The regulars of [illegible] maturely deliberating on the problem [illegible] to repair the soles of their boots on [illegible] plates on the steps, have about concluded [illegible] pegged boots and start in to repay the [illegible] the same kind. They hold that by [illegible] this plan they will be able soon to [illegible] of the iron plates, if not entirely [illegible], and thus [illegible] for each person at [illegible] five per quarter in wear and tear of boots [illegible] the estimate upon three dollars per [illegible] in a wet time, it will be seen [illegible] for the [illegible] of the stair-steps will [illegible] interested at least $150 per [illegible] cost of the steps may have been $50, and [illegible] perceptible wear about them.

[illegible] DALEY.—The lecture last evening [illegible] of the Portland Academy and Female [illegible], and the lecturer was listened [illegible] deal of [illegible]. The lecture was upon [illegible] subject, but, as its title signified, was [illegible]. The [illegible] has a very pl[illegible] style of [illegible] about words, words [illegible] a theme upon various topics worthy of [illegible] with the word Mob, showing its [illegible] popularity, especially in [illegible] to the New York mob, and its lesser [illegible]. The various terms in use by the [illegible], such as "a rock," "worked [illegible] with [illegible] alive and instructive [illegible] the terms are about [illegible] to be very expressive sentiments. [illegible] at some length on the word "Humbug" [illegible] proving that many more [illegible] than [illegible] are willing at all times [illegible].

[illegible].—A writer from the Idaho [illegible] of January 23d, [illegible] two young men [illegible] Messrs. Ellsworth and Dr. O [illegible] all that can be said favorable to their [illegible] Messrs. Ellsworth & Crane [illegible] to create as large a number of the [illegible] Ball, this evening, as possible, and [illegible] the [illegible] among the young folks, [illegible] their "harness," [illegible] Seller and his [illegible] will be there. The supper given at the Overland [illegible] the winter [illegible] that would have done credit to [illegible] than Boise City, and on this [illegible] the last ball of the [illegible] are doing all in their [illegible] as knowing how to [illegible] excel any of their [illegible]. The [illegible] in the country has been invited, and the ball [illegible] a good time."

[illegible] 5th, 1866.—[illegible] for perjury, [illegible] of testimony [illegible] the day.—Grand Jury [illegible] Court, with three true bills against [illegible] and were [illegible] United States vs. Abraham [illegible] without Federal license, [illegible] and plead guilty. Fined $20 and [illegible] until ten o'clock this morning.

[illegible].—Recently it was stated in this paper [illegible] Echo arrived at Canemah with a [illegible] tons freight. It should have been sixty tons. Capt. Ankeny thought, that if he would snag his [illegible], he might possibly be able to carry two hundred [illegible] sixty tons, if based upon newspaper reports. [illegible] however, is chronicled, and her [illegible] at one hundred tons. It will be seen by advertisement that the Echo will leave Canemah for Eugene City on Friday morning.

[illegible].—Benjamin C. Cunningham, a [illegible] near twelve years of age, son of Mr. Joseph [illegible] of St. Helens, was drowned at that place a few days since, by falling into the Columbia river near [illegible]. He was a good swimmer, but as he fell some [illegible] feet, and was supposed to have been hurt in the [illegible]. The body was recovered about [illegible] of an hour after the accident.

FROM MONTANA.—We learn that Mr. H. D. Sanborn, of [illegible] is in the city. He is a gentleman well qualified to give us some information concerning Montana, which at this time might be of great benefit to our merchants and [illegible] men, but we were unable to meet with him last evening.

THE JUVENILE POPULATION.—The School Clerk, Mr. L. M. Parrish, has just completed the annual school census of the district comprising this city, from which we gather the following as the number of Scholars: Boys, 758; girls, 864; total, 1,622. Quite a little army that, when [illegible] with the reports of but a few years ago.

[illegible].—We regret to learn of an accident which [illegible] to our friend Leopold Wolf, Esq., last evening. In handling a shot-gun at his office, it discharged without his expectation, the contents tearing away a portion of the left hand. We trust the event may not occasion the loss of the hand.

[illegible].—The steamer John H. Couch, Capt. Snow, arrived at 6 o'clock last evening from Astoria. The [illegible] Pacific had cleared, but was yet inside the bar at 11 A. M. yesterday. The Montana arrived at Astoria about the time the Couch left for Portland.

[illegible].—The bark H. W. Almy, we learn from Capt. Corno, was taken to sea on Saturday morning last by the Rabboni. The schooner A. Crosby was yet at [illegible] on the morning of Sunday, when the tug left for [illegible] having in tow the Almatia.

[illegible].—There was nothing transpiring in [illegible] Court, yesterday, and only for one poor [illegible] an ox on another poor cuffy, for which [illegible] required of the former for his appearance [illegible] the public would have found matters dull.

[illegible].—The bark Almatia, Capt. Richardson, now [illegible] cargo at Couch's wharf, comes full [illegible], and has a large assortment of general merchandise.

[illegible].—Prentice thinks Oregon must be [illegible] to study astronomy. They have a Daily [illegible] City [illegible] there. Can't see it.

TO SAVE A SINKING SHIP.—A correspondent of the Scientific American says: "If you have a boat that leaks badly, and it is in a strong current, or if you are towing it up stream, all you have to do to keep it dry is this: Bore a hole through the bottom and insert a piece of tin or iron half round through the hole, letting it extend a few inches below the bottom of the boat, and all the water will run out without any labor. I think a ship at sea could be kept afloat if you could keep her going four miles per hour."

MRS. JULIA DEAN HAYNE.—In the course of two or three weeks Mrs. Julia Dean Hayne, after winning both laurels and money in Mormondom, returns to the Eastern States.

A FEW LEFT.—The real estate raffle, to come off at Harry Woods, depends upon the sale of a few remaining chances. The list is advertised in appropriate column.

DON'T BELIEVE THEM.—If any one tell you that they know a better remedy for Coughs and colds than the Genuine Hall's Pulmonary Balsam, don't believe it. There is no better remedy, as any one who has ever used it can testify.

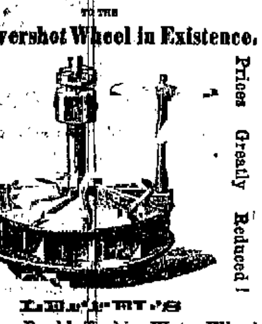
WATER WHEELS.
POWER PLEDGED EQUAL
TO THE
Best Overshot Wheel in Existence.

Prices Greatly Reduced! Prices Greatly Reduced!



LEFFEL'S
American Double Turbine Water Wheel

IS NOW MANUFACTURED BY THE OREGON IRON Works, in the city of Portland, and orders for the same can be filled immediately. We have a small supply of the different sizes, from 20 inches to 48 inches in diameter. That we may know the proper sized wheel you require, measure your water in the following way: Take the width of the stream, the average depth, and the distance it flows in a minute.

All the wheels now in use give universal satisfaction. Both the construction of the wheel and its performance, commend it to the better judgment of all minds capable of appreciating the highest development of mechanical construction. Therefore it has conquered the most violent opposition.

This wheel is especially adapted to mining purposes. It is light, and can be easily packed into the mountains. Wheels weighing from 100 to 300 pounds will yield from 10 to 40 horse power, under a head of 25 or 30 feet. They are the cheapest wheel to set up known, as they are so arranged as to produce the greatest power possible from the water used.

The prices of these wheels have now been reduced to the ability of all. Come and see them or send for a circular to

S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supercede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in Bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

THE MUTUAL
LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
OF NEW YORK.

INCORPORATED......1842.

ASSETS,
All Cash - - $14,000,000

ANNUAL INCOME, all Cash, over......$3,500,000
PAID CLAIMS, by Death, over......$6,500,000

THE OLDEST AND LARGEST
LIFE INSURANCE CO.
In the United States!

EVERY DESCRIPTION OF POLICY ISSUED.
ALL POLICIES ARE NON-FORFEITABLE.

Dividends are declared Annually—which can be applied as Cash in reducing the yearly premium commencing on the second year, or towards buying more insurance.

The last Dividend (Feb. 1st, 1866) was nearly double in amount and in proportion to premiums paid than was ever declared in the same space of time by any other Company in the world.

EXAMPLES
OF DIVIDENDS OR POLICIES ISSUED IN 1864.

Am't Policy.	Am't Dividends	Am't Premiums Paid.
$10,000 00	$675 00	$353 00
10,000 00	539 02	304 40
5,000 00	197 30	111 40
3,000 00	118 43	66 84
1,000 00	42 54	25 42

EXAMPLES
OF POLICIES PAID BY THE COMPANY.

$10,000 00	$6,026 00	$16,026 00
5,000 00	3,275 43	8,275 43
4,000 00	2,389 53	6,389 53
1,000 00	1,508 38	2,508 38

N. B.—Particular attention is requested to the advantages afforded by the payment of the premiums, on both Life and Endowment Insurance policies, in TEN ANNUAL INSTALMENTS. The rates of such premiums charged by this Company are lower, while the dividends are greater, than in any other life company in the United States. As an additional inducement, the Company will, on the surrender of such policy, issue a paid-up policy for an equitable sum, which they will guarantee SHALL EXCEED the [illegible] amount.

For instance, on surrender of a policy for $10,000 (other amounts in the same proportion,) on which the [illegible] are payable in ten annual instalments, the Company will issue a PAID-UP POLICY which they will guarantee

After the payment of 2 premiums SHALL EXCEED [illegible]

And so on. On the Five Year Life Plan the pro rata [illegible] double.

ENDOWMENT POLICIES are issued payable to the insured at death or any age between 40 and 65, with full participation in the surplus of the Company, thus combining Life Insurance with a safe and profitable investment.

It has been clearly proven that there is no way of investing where amounts are paid in small instalments [illegible] so safe and advantageous a manner—and bring in as large returns as in an Endowment Policy in this Company. They are also beginning to be considered an ABSOLUTE [illegible] by Merchants and others—for aside from a Life Insurance, it constitutes the finest form of collateral [illegible] have by them, upon which to borrow or convert into [illegible] in case of emergency.

A Heart for every Fate.

Oh, what is the use of complaining,
And grieving regretting the past?
Each day in our wisdom we're gaining
Though Time speedeth never so fast

The shadows we're often pursuing—
The hopes we are striving to win—
The pleasures we're always renewing—
Fade away ere they truly begin

Like waves in the desert beguiling
Bringing hope to the traveler a[illegible]
Are lips that have practic[illegible] their smiling,
And eyes that have studied their part

The trusting, beloved true-hearted
Have been gathered by Time as he sped
But our hearts change not though we're parted
For dearest to us are the dead

Then why look on life with believing?
Let us take it for all it is worth;
There are true as well as deceiving
And grief overshadows our mirth.

In peace let us live with each other,
From our hearts kindly thoughts emanate,
And striving to help one another,
Have a "heart for every fate." —

The Closed Staircase

I was walking up and down the cloistered court of St. Oswald's with my friend Bryce, one evening early in the Lent Term of 185—. It was only my second term of residence, and as Bryce was on the point of taking his degree, I regarded him with a considerable amount of respect, not to say awe; for he it was who had allowed me to rub off my freshness upon him, and saved me, by many a timely hint, from several of the errors and gaucheries incidental to the uninitiated in undergraduate life. I had fagged for him at school, and the mutual friendship once begun there, and interrupted for a space of three years by his residence in the University, now sprung up again more warmly than ever. And now, meeting again after the [illegible] which he had spent in hard [illegible] in his college rooms, there was the usual [illegible] of notes on every conceivable subject, [illegible] by imperceptible gradations from skating to politics, from politics to theology, and thence [illegible] "Again (taking in the origin of evil, and the [illegible] state of existence by the way), to the chances that so and so had of obtaining the [illegible] university scholarship. At last it seemed as if we had pretty well exhausted everything "conversable"; the current of our talk flowed in a shallower and still shallower stream, and we were on the point of separating for the night which was far advanced, when a casual question of mine altered the whole course of affairs, and kept us out of our respective beds for a considerable period longer. It arose thus: from the court, at regular intervals, staircases opened, each one leading to three or four different sets of rooms, all with their occupants, as there was never a set of [illegible] vacant for any length of time in college. But in one part of the court, at the south corner, where, in the natural course of things, one would have expected to see a staircase likewise, there was simply a door, shut close. Passing it for [illegible] the hundredth time in our circuit of the court, I [illegible] kicked against it, noticed that it was fast, and had no handle, keyhole, or other [illegible] and turning to Bryce, asked whether a sham door was supposed to be either [illegible] or ornamental by the intelligent architect of the court. To which he replied with rather [illegible] smile:

"[illegible] in this case, if tradition is to be [illegible]"

"What," said I, "is there some special and peculiar vintage of old port, reserved for the most [illegible] of most ancient fellows, to which [illegible] is gained by a secret spring, known only to the hereditary and invisible butler?"

"No," said he, laughing. "Bottles, if any be behind that door, must deserve the sobriquet we give to empty ones, as we roll them into the [illegible] of the room at supper-time—'dead men.' However, if you choose to hear the story as it was told me by my old tutor, who was junior fellow of St. Oswald's when the events causing that door to be closed took place" (here he gave it another kick, which made me [illegible],) "and if you will do me the justice to believe that I am not practising on your ingenuous innocence, I am entirely at your service!"

Of course I gladly assented, and, though I had felt as sleepy five minutes since, at that moment I [illegible] have warranted to keep awake for a week. He started off with the story, which I give in his own words as far as I can remember them:

"I think I [illegible] up here better initiated than most men in the lore of the university, owing to old Johnson, who spent at least half the time when he ought to have b[illegible] up my Greek iambics, in reciting [illegible] of his own [illegible] life; striking, undoubtedly, most of them were, and much better [illegible] [illegible] (a long way) after Sophocles; none of them here, however, [illegible] on my mind as the one connected with, or rather sealed by, that door. It appears that one of his most intimate friends, named Marsden, moved into these rooms only a short time before his degree, having [illegible] lodged in the town—a college was not so full as now, as [illegible] other colleges, [illegible] have now [illegible] comparative [illegible] [illegible] by the side of St. Oswald's now [illegible] [illegible] with it in point of [illegible] [illegible] as being in a quiet corner of the court, [illegible] he might as [illegible], [illegible] of [illegible] repeated [illegible] by accident, a [illegible] of working up for [illegible] by three months' reading. He had got comfortably settled in the rooms, and had [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] of reading men, into [illegible] of study, [illegible] and exercise. One evening, it was the 15th of No[illegible]ber, 17—, (he had [illegible] to [illegible] of the date,) he was reading late, with [illegible] than usual, having been [illegible] at his [illegible] over an unusually refractory and [illegible] Greek [illegible], at the [illegible] [illegible] the stairs to his room [illegible] [illegible] illumination in the sitting-room. Not [illegible] [illegible] he might not have left his candles [illegible], or whether his bed-maker, who was not [illegible] to brandy, had fallen a victim to it [illegible] [illegible] and, so, in unwilling [illegible] on his hearth, he [illegible] up and in, when a most [illegible] sight presented itself. The room was [illegible] lighted by wax candles [illegible] [illegible] the wall and [illegible] five-and-[illegible] [illegible] by old silver [illegible] which was [illegible] on the table, [illegible] of the [illegible], and on each side were seated young men in the dress of the end of the [illegible] fourth or [illegible] part of the eighteenth century, carousing [illegible] after the manner of their [illegible] of the [illegible]. The post of chairman was occupied by a remarkably handsome young fellow, somewhat [illegible] apparently than the rest, and with a [illegible] which bore undeniable traces of [illegible] [illegible] and who at [illegible] every now and then troubled by some [illegible] thought which [illegible] his brow, [illegible] was [illegible] if the [illegible] up, and [illegible] continually [illegible] off fresh with [illegible] to keep them going, [illegible] all his mind was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] at the [illegible] [illegible] to enter; and now Marsden [illegible] for the first time that the guest on the right hand of the host was [illegible] [illegible] (for he [illegible] at his [illegible] [illegible] every [illegible] [illegible] ten[illegible] [illegible] man. [illegible] of [illegible] the table. Over the face of [illegible] [illegible] there [illegible] [illegible] he lifted his glass and [illegible] the [illegible]. While this was going on Marsden was not conscious of hearing any [illegible] nay, by a sort of double sense, while kept alive to the quasi-reality of the scene before him, he could see, as in a shadowy background, his own broke, surmounted by his own bust of Plato, which looked far more ghost-like than the ghostly banqueters.

"And now the drinking seemed to become [illegible], the youth on the right hand, who at first refused wine, was yielding to the polite entreaties of his next neighbor (who again and again motioned to the servant to replenish his glass) and was gradually becoming flushed and heated. The whole company appeared to get disorderly, [illegible] were drunk with great rapidity, and all the well known accompaniments of under-graduate orgies in their most advanced stage, seemed to be taking place; and just at this time Marsden noticed that the countenances of all the others, with the exception of the fair guest, were such as would stamp them as belonging to what we should call the 'worst set,' and their expression was not improved by intoxication. At last all seemed to be either asleep or maudlin, save the host and his next neighbor, who, doubtless from the lateness of his arrival, together with his abstemiousness at first, had thus held out. But now he too seemed rapidly becoming like the rest, when on a sudden the host rose, went to a small cabinet, (for the servants had quitted the room), and took thence a small bottle labelled 'Tokay.' Filling a glass he handed it to his friend, who drank it off with a sort of foolish, half tipsy smile; but in one instant the smile changed to an expression of pain, then to one of horror, and then, as he caught the eye of the host fixed on him in malicious triumph, to one of indescribable hate. Making a violent effort to rise from his chair, and a fruitless one to clench his fist and strike his foe, his whole frame relaxed, and fell forward, and at the same moment there was a hideous groan, and the whole sight—supper, guests, poisoner, and poisoned—vanished, and the room was in utter darkness. * *

"Marsden awoke to find himself in his bed, duly attended by his old bed maker, who was giving him and herself alternate spoonfuls of brandy-and water."

The state of insensibility in which she had found him, required, alas! no explanation from him to her eyes as it was not a very uncommon experience of hers to discover her 'young gentlemen,' one or more of them, prone on the floor, rather than on the beds, of their apartments on her arrival in the early mornings and had she sought for or expected any account Marsden was by no means in a humor to give one. At first indeed he made up his mind to tell nobody, and of course ten minutes afterward, when his friend Johnson came to his rooms, he detailed his strange vision of the preceding night at length. Sad to say Johnson's countenance expressed the belief that Marsden had returned for one night at least to the somewhat reckless orgies which had adorned his early terms of residence and was suffering in consequence thereof and his only comment on the story was 'My dear fellow, if you will go on getting drunk up to the threshold of your degree you will most undoubtedly be plucked.' So Marsden said no more, and merely contenting himself with writing a brief abstract of that scene which he himself knew not how to account for, he did the most sensible thing under the circumstances and tried to forget all about it. A month rolled by the term waned all but a few steady readers were departing or had already departed to their homes for Christmas. The fifteenth of December was just closing in gloomy and damp and Marsden settled with a wearied sigh at the vanity of life such as is not uncommon at two-and twenty to his books. Wonderful to relate, he got interested and several hours flew by without his relaxing his attention. However, on looking at his watch, and seeing it close on midnight he was drowsily determining to go to bed, when on a sudden his whole room seemed to be illuminated. He was at the time standing at an upright desk put up for reading in one corner of his room, and instantly faced about. To his horror and astonishment he beheld the same scene already described, of the supper and poisoning, re-enacted in every particular. * *

"'We shall get you better soon, old boy,' said Johnson to him, as he bent over him about a fortnight after the above date, 'but you have succeeded in reading yourself into a brain-fever, and may consider yourself lucky that you have escaped with no worse consequences than temporary baldness and the appetite of an ostrich.'

"Marsden replied by two questions

"'What day of the month is it? and when can I be moved?'

"'It is the second of January, and in about a fortnight's time we may get you away from here.'

"To Johnson's surprise, and almost alarm, Marsden sprang up in bed, and, seizing him by the arm, said

"'If you don't get me away before a fortnight you may spare yourselves the trouble, for the undertaker will do the job more satisfactorily.'

"Johnson endeavored to quiet him, thinking not unreasonably, that the fever had not yet left him, and indeed he was worse for some hours afterward. But late in the evening he repeated the story he had told to my old tutor six weeks before; and Johnson sensibly informed the doctor, when he called, of his friend's dread of a repetition of the same scenes on the corresponding day of January, if he were suffered to remain so long; and with considerable risk to Marsden, happily unattended with bad results, he was moved out on the 14th of that month."

"The rooms have never since been occupied."

"Well," said I, as Bryce paused here, "had no one the courage to brave the spectral symposium?"

"Yes," said he, "the next night Johnson made a point of sitting up in the rooms, but he unfortunately had taken so much in the way of gentle stimulants to nerve him for the expected terrors that he awoke, after a somewhat uncomfortable slumber, at four o'clock, in the morning of the 16th to find himself in profound darkness, and with a violent cold in the head."

"But," said I again, "was no explanation ever offered of the extraordinary scene of which Marsden was witness?"

"Only this," replied Bryce, "some weeks afterwards, when he was slowly recruiting his health at his father's [illegible] in Leicestershire, he found [illegible] bundle of old papers [illegible] disused room, [illegible] confession of an ancestor of his, whom [illegible] of as a wild, fast [illegible], who had [illegible] sobered down, gone abroad and turned [illegible], but of whose history but little was known. The manuscript contained a very ordinary account of love and jealousy, induced by a handsome young rival in the affections of a certain young lady, ending, with an obscure vow of vengeance against him. Then came a blank, and afterwards these singular words:

"'Nov. 16, 180—: Good God! am I to go through that horrible evening again? Not a soul but myself knows or suspects that I had anything to do with his death; they put it down to excessive drinking and excitement; and here am I forced by some frightful fate to commit the same ghastly crime in spirit as each fifteenth day of the month comes round! Forgive me, O God, but I know it cannot be. I must carry about a living hell within me till I die!' Here the MS. ceased abruptly. Whether its contents were intended to be [illegible] known by the unhappy man (who before the end of the year had quitted England forever), or to be left in obscurity, it is impossible to say. At any rate, the narrative was not found till the time I mention, and need hardly say materially retarded Marsden's recovery. He was never able to ascertain whether the vision had appeared to others before his time, or whether, as a descendant of the murderer, he had been specially favored in the matter. Nobody else ever repeated the experiment, which failed in Johnson's case, for the story came to the Master's ears; and as the rooms occupied by Marsden were not particularly convenient or particularly wanted, and as he had a great dislike, as he said, to further addling the brains of undergraduate members of the college by any additional distraction, he caused the door you see at the bottom of the staircase to be fixed firmly in its place; and it hasn't, as far as I am aware, occurred to any succeeding college authorities to have it opened since. But I do not despair of a seance being held there yet, as there are one or two of the junior fellows who believe in that sort of thing—and in nothing else. But come," concluded Bryce, "I ought to have been in bed hours ago, so, if my fire has not hopelessly subsided, we will contrive a small jug of 'Bishop' before we turn in."

Oregon Railroad.—There is nothing which will benefit the Sacramento valley and the Northern portion of the State as much as the contemplated Oregon Railroad. During the coming summer the road from Lincoln to Marysville will be completed, making a continuous route from Sacramento to Oroville. The bill introduced in Congress provides for the same aid by Government to the Oregon road as is extended to the Central Pacific. Responsible parties are only waiting for the bill to pass, when they will commence operations, and push the work along with energy and vigor. Every mile of the road will pay handsomely as fast as it is built—in fact, there is no better inducement presented for the investment of capital than the Oregon railroad enterprise presents. This road will open up the rich valley of the Sacramento, and make it the greatest thoroughfare on the coast. The road will give a new impetus to mining in the northern counties, bringing their supplies to their very doors at one-tenth their present cost. But more than all is the State of Oregon interested in this enterprise. This road would place Portland in three days' communication with San Francisco, and open a ready market for the produce of the whole State, and the heavy loaded freight trains which would pass over this road would surprise even the most sanguine advocate of the road. Next to the Pacific railroad, and coeval with it, is the Oregon railroad. It is the most feasible of any route of the same extent in the United States. It will open up a great highway of commerce and travel to a section of country three times as large as the whole of New England. It will not stop at Portland, but northward it will take its course, traversing British America and connecting the Russian possessions with San Francisco, and in time with New York, with bands of iron.

To the people of Sacramento valley and Oregon we say, work diligently for the accomplishment of this great enterprise. Agitate the subject through the press. San Francisco, Sacramento and Marysville are interested in this enterprise, and should not suffer the subject to become lukewarm. We shall expect to see the iron horse come snorting into Chico on his northern tour beyond Mount Shasta, in the course of the next eighteen months.—Chico Courant

A Southern newspaper sums up the "wants" of the South as follows:

1 We want the military removed 2 We want the Freedmen's Bureau abolished 3 We want to be allowed to elect men to office who will represent the wishes of a majority of the people 4 We want these officers when elected, to be allowed to exercise the functions of their respective offices without interference from the General Government 5 We want a general amnesty and 6 We want the protective tariff abolished

The Cincinnati Gazette in an extended account of the life and services of Mr Henry Winter Davis, mentions that in the House of Representatives, on an occasion, he was making a speech in reply to Mr. Pike, of Maine. As the members themselves broke out into applause all over the floor, which the speaker was powerless to restrain. Pike relaxed his attitude of intense attention and said audibly—"Well, d—n you, you are an honor to the Republic anyway, if you are crazy!" Three minutes later he was on the floor making a heated and bitter reply.

Large Sale of Damaged Goods.—The executors of the Democratic party deceased will offer at public vendue, on and after this date—the sales to continue until the entire stock is closed out—the effects political and personal of the following parties to wit namely

1 The time honored Democracy"
2 The Bourbon Democracy
3 "The Hunkins Democracy"
4 "The Democracy of New Jersey

Sealed proposals will be received for the Democracy of Kentucky

The large assortment of "time honored principles" will be sold in lots to suit the purchasers. It includes—

One set resolutions that coercion is unconstitutional (Badly damaged.)

One set resolutions that the rebellion cannot be put down [illegible] (Played out last spring.)

One set resolutions to compromise with treason (Worm eaten.)

One set resolutions that "this is an abolition war" (Useless to the heirs and assigns.)

One set resolutions that the war is a failure (Purchaser will be paid to take it away.)

One half set resolutions of thanks to the army and navy (Convenient to have in the house.)

There will also be disposed of on terms made known on the day of sale, the following principles, as good as new having been but little used:

One resolution approving the policy of reconstruction (Impaired by conditions.)

One resolution indorsing Andrew Johnson as a patriot and a statesman (Value subject to future conditions.)

One resolution that the Democratic party is, and always has been, in favor of the Union one and indivisible (Not suitable for a Southern market.)

One resolution concerning State sovereignty (This is a valuable self adjusting article, capable of expansion or contraction at the pleasure of the owner.)

One resolution against negro suffrage (To revert to the heirs and assigns, provided the negro is found hereafter to vote their ticket.)

One resolution to tax United States Bonds. (Buncombe.)

One resolution that the soldiers are bully boys (Valuable for local purposes only.)

The attention of persons about immigrating to Mexico and other cheerful foreign ports, is especially directed to a miscellaneous lot of principles, which the executors are authorized to warrant to fit any form of government, whether based on the divine right of negro driving and miscegenation, or admitting a visible admixture of negro blood to the ballot.

N B.—Sale positive, and without reference to the meeting of Congress, as the executors must make room for a fresh supply of principles, ordered for the use and benefit of the heirs and assigns of the Democratic party, deceased, from their former market, the seceded States.—Cincinnati Commercial

The Great Plains Trade.—Some idea of the traffic which is carried on over the great Plains of the West, may be gathered from the following statistics, collected and published by the Atchison Champion, showing the amount of freight shipped from that city across the Plains to different points of the West during the past season. Twenty seven firms and individual freighters were engaged in the business during the past year, and the aggregate amount of their shipments is 21,581,859 pounds of assorted merchandise; requiring for its transportation 4,917 wagons, 7,164 mules, and 27,075 oxen, and employed 5,256 men. Of the freight, 7,166,800 pounds were shipped to Denver, 496,907 lbs to Black Hawk and Central Colorado; 2,715,282 to Salt Lake City, 1,482,123 to Santa Fe, 880,000 to Julesburg, 000,000 to Fort Laramie, 759,000 to Camp Collins, 712,000 to Fort Riley, 305,500 to Fort Union, 412,000 to Virginia City, and the remainder, 1,605,058 pounds, to different points in Utah, Nevada, Montana, Idaho and Colorado. The total amount or capital invested in wagons, mules, oxen, horses, &c., employed in this trade is over $6,000,000. The value of the merchandise shipped cannot be definitely ascertained.

The overland coaches, which leave and arrive at Atchison daily, have taken out during the past year, 2,067 passengers, and brought in 2,281. The coaches, during the year, have also brought in $24,000,000 in specie, and carried out 40,000 pounds of express goods.

The freighting business at Atchison during the past year has been seven times greater than that of 1861, five times larger than in 1862, four times larger than in 1863, and exceeds the trade of 1864 by 4,598,440.

The most experienced freighters think that the business of 1866 will be almost double that of the past year.

Gen. Steedman on Compulsory Labor.—A good story is told of Gen. Steedman, now in command of the Department of Georgia:

A railroad contractor came to him one day and asked for a military force to compel the negroes to work in repairing the line from Savannah to Augusta. "They won't work," he said. "How much do you pay them?" asked the General, who had been a railroad contractor from his boyhood up. "Ten dollars." "The deuce!" said Steedman; "you go and give 'em thirty, and see whether they'll work then. I never gave a man less than 87½ cents a day in my life. I think I could get a brigade at that price here. You go and try it." He went!

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC SEDATIVE DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus. CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

THE STANDARD
AMERICAN BILLIARD TABLES!
AND COMBINATION CUSHIONS

MESSRS. PHELAN & COLLENDER

WOULD RESPECTFULLY CALL THE ATTENtion of persons wanting Billiard Tables to the great superiority of the above tables, manufactured exclusively at their establishment.

At the Billiard Congress of 1863, composed of all the first-class players of America, it was unanimously resolved that tables of our manufacture should be used at all matches for the Championship, as the best and only reliable tables.

These Billiard Tables have received the unqualified approval of the best players and most competent judges, who have universally pronounced them unequaled for general excellence and durability.

Seven distinct patents for improvements in Billiard Tables have been granted to us by the United States Patent Office, and we have lately obtained a Patent from the French Government, for our improvement in Billiard Cushions.

We employ, in the construction of our tables, a variety of machines specially made for the purpose, by means of which we are enabled to insure a scientific and mechanical accuracy hitherto unknown in Billiard manufacture.

Having a long experience and thorough knowledge of all the appliances of Billiards and constantly on hand a large stock of the best and most thoroughly seasoned materials, we are prepared to furnish everything required in the Billiard line with unprecedented dispatch.

The celebrated French Billiard Player, M Berger, has published the following opinion:

"New York 2d August, 1861

"On the eve of leaving the United States, I am happy to declare to all amateurs of Billiards that after a tour of eleven months through the principal cities, I have been enabled to judge in a satisfactory manner of the superiority of the Billiard Tables manufactured by Phelan & Collender. The system of manufacturing is so superior, that I am happy to introduce their style of cushion into France. They have united to their manufacture of American Billiard Tables that of the French Tables, of remarkable excellence and beauty. For these reasons, I am happy to make this declaration.

"BERGER, CLAUDIUS,
Prof of Billiards, Paris."

Parties ordering from us will find our prices as low as good work can possibly be made for. We sell first-class articles at a fair price, and will not make an inferior article at any price.

Orders by mail carefully and promptly executed. Illustrated Catalogues and Price Lists sent by mail. NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

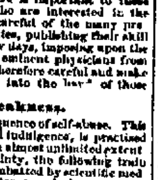
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation there stands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, so that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes; pimples and various eruptions about the face, [illegible] fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently [illegible]. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by any of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney street, near Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 283.
